Surface Attributes:

The need to provide visual communication tools with different surfaces arises from the diverse requirements of conveying information effectively. These surfaces serve specific purposes and cater to different aspects of communication.

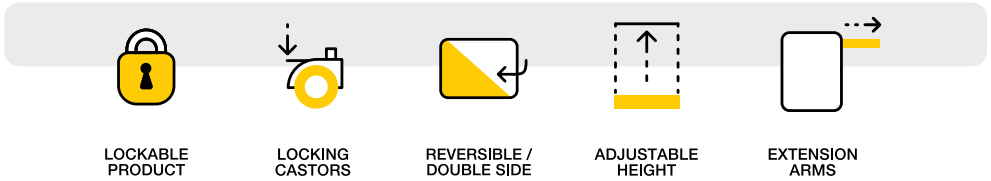

Performance Attributes:

Creating several attributes arises to ensure adaptability to user needs. Fire retardant materials, weatherproof features, and space-saving solutions enhance safety, durability, and practicality, making the products versatile and suitable for diverse environments and requirements.

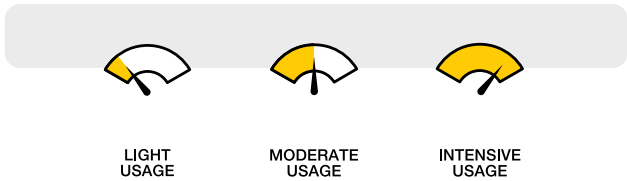

Product Features:

Combining product design, ergonomics and user wellbeing is essential to provide a positive experience that meets the user's needs. These attributes enhance user satisfaction by providing customizable, flexible, and user-friendly Viscom solutions for effective communication.

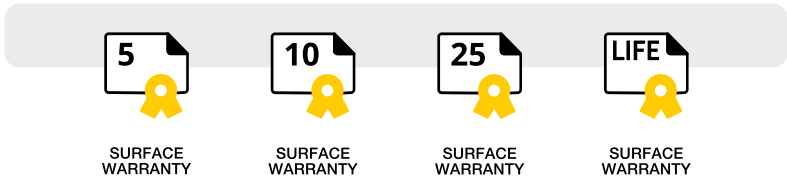

Usage & Cleaning:

Writing surfaces require regular care and maintenance to ensure optimal functionality and longevity. Following these cleaning frequency practices helps extend the lifespan, ensures optimal writing experiences, and preserves their visual appeal.

Surface Warranty:

The warranty and product durability is influenced by the quality of the materials used in their construction. Higher-quality surfaces, such as glass and ceramic, are more durable and resistant. Other surfaces, like lacquered steel and non-magnetic have shorter lifespans.

How to choose your Easel

Flipchart easels are indispensable tools for presentations, training sessions, brainstorming, and collaborative discussions. They provide a versatile platform for capturing ideas, illustrating concepts, and engaging audiences in a dynamic and interactive manner.

When selecting a flipchart easel, two critical factors to consider are the surface type and the base type. The surface type directly affects the quality of your writing, erasing, and overall user experience. Whether it's the durability and magnetic capabilities of lacquered steel, or the cost-effectiveness of non-magnetic surfaces, there is a writing surface available for every requirement.

Each base type offers unique advantages based on the user specific needs and the environment in which the flipchart easel will be used. Consider factors such as mobility, stability, and ease of use when selecting the appropriate base type for your intended purpose.

How to choose an Easel

Surface

Lacquered Steel:

- Lacquered steel surfaces are highly durable and designed for frequent use.
- Coated with a layer of lacquer, the steel provides a smooth and magnetic writing surface.
- The surface is non-porous, preventing ink or marker pigments from seeping into the material.
- Easy to clean, lacquered steel surfaces feature a 10-year warranty.

Non-Magnetic:

- Non-magnetic writing board surfaces are cost-effective options for writing boards.
- Compatible with dry erase markers, allowing for easy writing and erasing.
- Suitable for lighter use and environments where magnetic functionality is not required.
- Everyday boards, these are a smart and economical solution and feature a 5-year surface warranty.

Structure

Tripod:

- A tripod base offers stability and easy height adjustment.
- The three-leg system provides a solid foundation for the flipchart easel.
- Highly versatile, this design allows you to adjust the height to suit the presentation needs.
- Portable structure that can be easily folded for storage or transportation.

Mobile:

- A mobile base is designed with locking castors for improved mobility and stability.
- Provides flexibility and convenience, particularly in dynamic workspaces where the easel needs to be relocated frequently.
- The mobile base allows to move the structure effortlessly from one location to another.

Footbar:

- The footbar base features a robust and stable platform.
- The structure design offers stability and easy height adjustment.
- This base type ensures that the easel remains steady during your presentations, even in high-traffic areas.
- Helps prevent accidental movement or tipping of the flipchart easel board, ensuring a secure and reliable setup.

Easels

Easels are an essential tool for presentations, and meeting. These are a portable and adjustable solution, designed to provide a convenient and effective way to present information while also allowing for a more interactive presentation that will help you connect with your audience.
